

UNCONSCIOUS GIRL ON NAVY TUG WITH FIFTEEN SAILORS

Her Moans Lead Officer to Discover Drinking Bout at Brooklyn Yard.

BLUEJACKETS IN BRIG.

Commander of the Powhatan
Was on Leave—Investigation Is Begun.

Fifteen enlisted men on the United States naval tug Powhatan were imprisoned in the Navy Yard brig to-day after Lieut. Smith found them in the cabin of the tug, which is moored at the Gibson street wharf, with a young girl who was unconscious from drinking whiskey.

The girl, Lillian Anderson, twenty years old, the daughter of William Anderson, a bookkeeper, of No. 206 East Twenty-fifth street, Manhattan, was sent to Cumberland Street Hospital in a Navy Yard ambulance. At first her death was feared, but she recovered rapidly this afternoon. She refused to tell how she got into the Navy Yard.

It was said at her home to-day that she had been working in a store until recently, she never stayed out at night and left home after breakfast to-day. The police had promised the family to try to shield the girl and had entered her name at the hospital as Annie Baldwin. But at the Navy Yard it was said that Lieut. Smith's raid on the tug was at 4 o'clock this morning.

Moans Attract Officer.

Lieut. Smith was taking a walk along the bulkhead. Passing the Powhatan, he heard moans and hysterical screams. He went alongside, and through a porthole saw the childish figure of a girl on the floor of the main cabin. Several men were bending over her, rubbing her head with wet cloths and slapping her hands in an endeavor to restore her. Lieut. Smith rushed into the cabin, ordered the soberest of the men to telephone for an ambulance, and then called a marine and had a guard set on the tug until he had reported to Admiral Leutze, the commandant of the yard.

Floor Covered With Bottles.

The floor of the cabin was covered with empty bottles of all shapes and sizes. He told the Admiral that he thought there were at least seventy-five of them.

The men were at once put under arrest and an investigation begun. Every body who knew anything of the matter had strict orders to keep his mouth shut. It was learned that Commander Hennessey of the tug was on leave of absence. No information could be obtained officially as to who was responsible for discipline in his absence.

MAYOR REFUSES TO HEAR HOSPITAL SITE PROTEST.

When the proposed Noble street, Greenpoint, site for an emergency hospital came up for consideration before the Board of Estimate to-day, nearly one hundred interested persons pressed forward.

"Are all of you here to talk about that hospital site?" asked the Mayor, with gavel poised. A general nodding of heads in assent followed.

"Well," said the Mayor, as he dropped the gavel and waved both arms, you can all go away from here. We have heard all we want to hear on that subject. We do not want to hear you again."

The persons fell back and filed out of the room. On motion the matter was deferred for two weeks.

Comptroller Prindle and Charles Commissioner Drummond, whose official duty it is to establish the proposed hospital, have been at loggerheads over the price demanded for the Noble street site. Originally the price asked by the owners was $60,000. The Comptroller's real estate expert, Charles O'Malley, reported that the site should be purchased in open market for $30,000.

DEEPEST SUBWAY STATION WILL BE OPENED SATURDAY

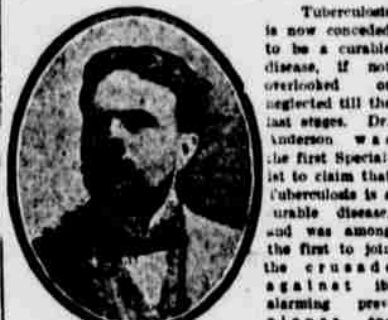

New Entrance to Tube at 191st
Street 170 Feet Below the Surface.

The management of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company has notified the Public Service Commission that the new station on the Broadway Division of the subway at One Hundred and Ninety-first street will be opened at noon next Saturday.

This station is about one hundred and seventy feet below the surface of the ground, and is farther from the surface than any other station of the Interborough subway. It has cost about $50,000, the work being done as an extra under the original subway contract.

Besides the stairway at One Hundred and Ninety-first street, there are four elevators, all in one shaft, and going down as far as the mezzanine floor of the station. The city authorities are also planning to construct a sort of subterranean street, or promenade, from a point about nine hundred feet to the west, to connect with the station. This station is the only one between One Hundred and Eighty-first street and Dyckman street, a distance of almost a mile, and it has been much desired by residents and property owners in the neighborhood. The latter have raised a fund, in fact, which, it is understood, is to be used to add in the maintenance. To further evince their joy over the occasion a celebration has been arranged by a committee of property owners, headed by Henry Morgenthau. A special train is to leave One Hundred and Thirty-seventh street at 12:30, and after the station has been fully inspected there is to be a luncheon at the Bonny Castle opposite the station.

TUBERCULOSIS HOW TO CONTROL AND PREVENT IT.

DR. ANDERSON.

Tuberculosis is now conceded to be a curable disease, and is no longer overlooked or neglected till the last stages. Dr. Anderson, who was the first specialist to claim that tuberculosis is a curable disease, and was among the first to join the crusade against its spread, is now spreading his treatment as the best.

Do not be afraid of being told that you have the beginning of consumption, because every case is curable at this stage. You may have only a cough or cold; you may have a catarrh or some throat or bronchial ailment, or you may have early tubercular trouble—all of which may be promptly cured, if only discovered and properly treated in time.

It is a fearful waste of time to attempt to "doctor" yourself by trying first one remedy and then another when you have a cough or cold, because you may be using the wrong remedy for the wrong thing, and in the meantime the disease is progressing toward the danger zone. Do not neglect a cough, cold or catarrh, for they are forerunners of consumption.

Do not experiment on yourself by taking so-called "cough cures," drugs or stimulants into your stomach. No matter what your symptoms are, or what you think your ailment is, the very first thing to do is to consult a skilled specialist and have a complete and thorough examination to find out exactly what the trouble is. Do not put off until you reach the incurable last stage.

Dr. Anderson is curing many cases of Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma and Catarrh by his new, original treatment. References of permanently cured cases at the office.

Consult him at once and learn the truth about yourself. Do not neglect your health or wait until dangerous conditions develop. Find out your true ailment before tubercular bacilli are present or complete breakdown overtakes you.

Consultation, examination and advice at office are given without any charge. 50 West 23d st. (between 8th and 9th aces), New York City. Hours daily, 10 to 6; Sundays, 11 to 2. On Monday, Wednesday and Friday evening, 6 to 8 o'clock. New illustrated book on the treatment and cure of Lung and Chest Diseases sent on request to any address.

$2,500 FOR BROKEN PROMISE

Widow Gets Verdict From Doctor Who Wouldn't Wed.

Mrs. Rose Nebenzahl, an attractive young widow, got a judgment for $2,500 from Dr. Charles Rosenhofer of No. 54 Livingston street, in the Supreme Court to-day for breach of promise of marriage.

Mrs. Nebenzahl declared to Justice McCall and the jury that Dr. Rosenhofer asked her to marry him and that subsequently she learned he was in love with another woman. His excuse for not marrying her, she said, was that his family disapproved of a match with her.

"When I first met him he told me he was worth $20,000," she said. "But he had a different song after I began this suit. Now he says he hasn't anything."

Dr. Rosenhofer did not defend the case. John E. Huston was counsel for Mrs. Nebenzahl.

Macy's

THE "WHY" OF MACY LOW PRICES
For over half a century the Macy store has been known far and wide for its strict adherence to the policy upon which the success and growth of the establishment are based. R. H. Macy, the founder of the business, had one guiding idea:

To sell good merchandise at lower prices than any other house, but for cash only.

Year by year, departments have been enlarged; others added; then workrooms, factories and foreign bureaus established, and our merchandising methods improved to conform with these changes; but, through them all, we have kept unchanged that main idea, which has gained for us, beyond question, the fullest confidence of the buying public.

Therefore, when rare and beautiful things come to us, we don't add extra dollars to the price, simply because of that rarity and beauty. Our prices are figured on a modest margin of profit which applies to luxuries and necessities alike. What is the consequence?

Our every-day-in-the-year prices are, as a rule, lower than the advertised reduced prices of others; and in the few exceptions to this rule—as soon as we find out that the special prices of others are below our regular prices—we cut as much as is necessary to sustain the Macy reputation for underselling supremacy.

"The higher the price, the greater the saving when you buy at Macy's," has become axiomatic.
